ILP Impact In The Classroom

Teachers will be provided Way-To-Go data which will help them lead, guide, and direct students within their educational settings to help their students create and reach goals.

When teachers utilize the data and resources in a student's ILP during classroom instruction, students can see the relevance of the content as it relates to their plans for high school and beyond.

Teachers, counselors, and staff work with students to help guide, facilitate, and support the process of developing their ILP.

INDIVIDUAL LEARNING PLAN

An ILP consists of many strategies of learning to help students understand themselves. An ILP helps students realize their learning styles and the skills they need to develop in order to get the most of their personal style of learning.

An ILP helps students develop a self-awareness that will not only help them in their career choices, but also provide them with the tools and strategies to create successful personal/social relationships.

An ILP accomplishes many of its goals through the use of the WAY-TO-GO website via data collection. Data is collected through surveys such as skills surveys, career inventory surveys, and personal/social awareness surveys.
